2nd grade writing activities

Home Store Contact Us Sitemap Here is one of our favorite second-class writing worksheets. Why does this one work so well? Because we give students the framework for a great story and they make it their own. If you've ever asked a student, almost of any age, to simply write a story, the standard reply you'll receive is, I don't know what to write. This worksheet takes care of that problem! It's an individual fill-in exercise, similar to the one you might have played at a party. This is a fun way to ask students to read, spell, and write. Zoo-y Day! Here's a screenshot of part of a free second-class writing worksheet. The direction is below it. You should help students with directions the first time they complete a page. Printable full story instructions: 1. Give students a list of words at the top of the worksheet. Ask him to spell any word that fits the category. 2. Give students the bottom of the story at the bottom. Ask him to copy each word from his list of words into a blank that fits in the story. 3. Then ask the student to read the story to himself. 4. Finally, ask students to finish the story by writing 2-3 sentences at the back of the page. You can also ask students to rewrite the full story in their own handwriting and add illustrations. Try these second-grade writing instructions too! More Second Class Writing Activities Second class lesson plan – 25 sentence spelling dictation and complete instructions.
